CHS Class Donates Casseroles to Hospice

Campus High School students enrolled in Nutrition and Wellness classes participated in a community service project to provide the Harry Hynes Memorial Hospice with casseroles for the holidays. Student cooks put a great deal of time into the project by designing the initial casserole and conducting taste/market testing in class. The student cooks adjusted their recipes, made the dish again, and took it out into the Commons where at least 16 students/staff tasted and evaluated it. After perfecting their recipes, students headed to the classroom kitchen and produced 48 casseroles for the Hospice. (Photo) Harry Hynes Memorial Hospice Chief Quality Officer Anita Dorf (center) accepted casseroles from CHS students Madison Burkey (sophomore) and David Burger (junior). Each casserole was put in a hand-made box that included a photo of the dish and a nutritional label containing information found on typical packages. (USD 261 Photo)
